GUSTAV R. NELSON SUICIDES. Leaves Wife and Six Children, the Youngest Twins Born Saturday.

Gustav R. Nelson, a blacksmith with shop on Jackson street, whose wife still in St. Joseph's hospital, where she gave birth to twins last Sonday, committed suicide by innaling illumi-nating gas Friday morning. The tragedy occurred at Nelson's

The trasedy occurred at Nelson's home, No. 18 Carey street. About 8 o'clock in the morning Nelson, who had been siceping in a room next to the kitchen, arose and complained of being sick. Mrs. Ellen Stackpole, who has been keeping house for the Neisons, suggested that he go to bed upstairs, so that the children might not disturb him. This he supposedly did and nothing more was heard from him until Mrs. Stackpole detected the odor of gas about the house shortly after 11 o'clock.

The millionsh called soon after, and Farming tools The minmax called soon after, and together they started to locate the escaping gas. The odor red them upstairs and to the door of the room in which Nelson was. The door was locked and the corridor was filled with gas. A message was sent to the black-smith shop and Andrew Larsen, Nelson's assistant, responded and broke in the door.
